STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The minimum standards laid down in the Merchant Shipping Act, 1958 which merchant ships should comply with in the interests of safety of life and property at sea are based on the International Convention for the Safety of Life at Sea, 1948. The Fourth International Conference on Safety of Life at Sea which met in London in May-June, 1960 under the aegis of the Inter-Governmental Maritime Consultative Organisation, one of the specialised agencies of the United Nations, reviewed the 1948 Convention in the light of the experience of various countries during the intervening twelve years and decided to replace it by a new Convention, namely, the International Convention for the Safety of Life at Sea, 1960. The new Convention was adopted on the 17th June, 1960 and was, subject to acceptance, signed, among others, by the representatives of the Government of India. As a prelude to depositing our acceptance of the 1960 Convention, it is necessary to amend the Merchant Shipping Act, 1958 suitably. As the Merchant Shipping Act already embodies the requirements of the 1948 Convention, it is necessary to amend that Act only to the extent that the 1960 Convention has deviated from the 1948 Convention.

- 2. Some of the more important requirements of the 1960 Convention which involve deviation from the provisions of the 1948 Convention and which therefore call for amendment of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1958 are summarised below:—
 - (1) Survey of cargo ships and issue of safety certificates to cargo ships.—Under the 1960 Convention, the scope of survey of cargo ships has been extended to cover the survey of hull, machinery and other equipment of cargo ships. Further, all cargo ships of over 500 tons gross will be required to carry in addition to the existing certificates a safety construction certificate issued by or under the authority of a contracting Government. It is, therefore, necessary to make suitable provisions in the Act for survey of cargo ships and for the issue of safety construction certificates to cargo ships.
 - (2) Stability data.—In contrast to the 1948 Convention, the 1960 Convention requires that every ship must carry on board sufficient data to enable the master, by rapid and simple processes, to obtain accurate guidance as to the stability of a ship under varying conditions of service.

- (3) Life-saving appliances.—The most important deviation made by the 1960 Convention in regard to life-saving appliances relates to the removal of the restriction imposed by the 1948 Convention on the use of inflatable and other rafts which depend on air for their buoyancy. Inflatable life-rafts as well as rigid life-rafts as an alternative are now acceptable, provided these comply with certain conditions.
 - (4) Radio installation.—Under the 1948 Convention, cargo ships below 500 tons gross were not required to be fitted with radio installations but under the 1960 Convention even cargo ships of less than 500 but not less than 300 tons gross are required to be fitted with such installations.
 - (5) Carriage of grain cargo.—The 1960 Convention contains a number of new requirements relating to the carriage of grain in ships. Emphasis is laid on the need for giving trimming and on the fundamental importance of preserving the stability of the ship. Duly approved grain-loading plans are required to be carried on board by ships carrying grain and such plans are required to be accepted by the other contracting Governments as evidence of compliance with the requirements of the Convention.
 - (6) Carriage of dangerous goods.—The 1960 Convention contains a number of new regulations relating to the classification, Packing, labelling, documentation and stowage of dangerous goods on board ships.
 - (7) Nuclear ships.—The 1948 Convention does not contain any special provisions relating to nuclear ships. Having regard to the new problems in the field of safety owing to the advent of nuclear power as one of the means of propulsion for merchant ships, and having regard to the hazards inherent in the nuclear ships, it is necessary to have special provisions relating to nuclear ships. The 1960 Convention contains a special Chapter for this purpose. A number of requirements are provided for in this Chapter for the purpose of ensuring that nuclear ships do not become a source of danger to life, not only at sea but also at ports and other places and that such ships do not become a source of contamination of food and water resources.
 - (8) The Notes on clauses explain the other deviations made by the 1960 Convention.
- 3. The Bill seeks to give effect to the various deviations made by the 1960 Convention and mentioned above by making suitable amendments in the Act.

New Delhi; The 2nd December, 1965. RAJ BAHADUR.

Notes on clauses

Clause 2.—The definitions of 'cargo ship', 'international voyage', nuclear ship' and 'tanker' are based upon the definitions of those expressions in the 1960 Convention. The definition of 'safety convention' contained in clause (38) of section 3 of the Act is being amended to mean the Safety Convention of 1960. The definition of 'safety convention certificate' in clause (38) of section 3 of the Act is being amended to include the various certificates required under the Safety Convention of 1960.

Clause 3.—Section 9 of the Act provides for appointment of surveyors of ships by the Central Government. The 1960 Convention permits the contracting Governments to entrust the survey of ships to non-governmental persons or agencies. It has been decided that for the present, such power should be taken in respect of cargo ships only. Section 9 is being amended for this limited purpose.

Clauses 4, 5 and 6.—The changes in sections 241, 242 and 244 are of a consequential nature and are intended to make it clear that for the purposes of the said sections, a nuclear passenger ship safety certificate would, in the case of nuclear ships, have the same effect as a passenger ship safety certificate would have, in the case of non-nuclear passenger ships.

Clause 7.—The 1960 Safety Convention provides inter alia for the issue of safety construction certificates to cargo ships and contains several provisions as to construction rules, applicable in the case of cargo ships. Section 284 which deals with construction rules in the case of passenger ships is being amended to provide that the Central Government may make construction rules in relation to cargo ships also.

Clause 8.—The 1960 Convention permits the use of inflatable and other life-rafts. Accordingly, section 288 which deals with the power of the Central Government to make rules as to life-saving appliances is being amended to include within the purview of that section matters relating to life-rafts and the training of crew in launching and using life-rafts.

Clause 9.—(i) Sub-clause (a).—Unlike the 1948 Convention, the 1960 Convention requires even cargo ships of less than 500 tons gross but not less than 300 tons gross to be fitted with radio installation. Sub-clause (a) gives effect to this.

- (ii) Sub-clause (b).—The amendment is of a consequential nature.
- (iii) Sub-clause (c).—In the case of ships of 1600 tons gross or more, the 1960 Convention provides that every exemption from the obligation to provide with a radio telegraphy installation should be subject to the condition that the ship shall have on board a radio telephony installation. Further, the Convention prohibits exemptions from the requirements as to radio installation, radio telegraphy service and radio telephony service in cases where such exemption will have an adverse effect on the general efficiency of the distress service for the safety of ships. Sub-clause (c) seeks to give effect to these requirements.

Clause 10.—The 1960 Safety Convention, like the 1948 Convention requires that every ship of 1600 tons gross or more shall be provided with a radio direction finder. Further, the 1960 Convention provides for exemption being granted from this requirement in the case of ships under 5000 tons gross in certain specified cases. Proposed subsection (2) of section 292 gives effect to the relevant provisions of the 1960 Convention as to such exemptions.

Clause 11.—This clause seeks to remove a requirement as to radio watch, which is no longer required.

Clause 12.—The amendment to sub-section (1) of section 296 of the Act is of a consequential nature. The amendment to sub-section (2) of that section empowers the Central Government to make rules as to the radio telegraphy installations on motor life-boats and survival craft and is for the purpose of implementation of the various new provisions in the 1960 Safety Convention relating to the subject.

Clause 13.—This clause seeks to amend section 297 of the Act to give effect to the new requirement in the 1960 Convention that the signalling lamp of ships of the type referred to in the section shall not be solely dependent upon the ship's main source of electrical power.

Clause 14.—The 1960 Safety Convention requires that every ship must carry on board sufficient data to enable the master, by rapid and simple processes, to obtain accurate guidance as to the stability of his ship under varying conditions of service. The Convention also requires that any change in the data should be duly communicated to the appropriate authorities of the country in which the ship is registered. The amendments to section 298 are for giving effect to these requirements.

Clause 15.—The amendments to section 299 are of a consequential nature.

Clause 16.—This clause seeks to insert two new sections, section 299A and section 299B. Both these sections relate to cargo ships and provide respectively for the issue of safety convention certificates to cargo ships as required under the 1960 Safety Convention and for the making of rules as to survey of cargo ships for the purpose of issue of such certificates.

Clauses 17 and 18.—The amendments to sections 300 and 301 are of a consequential nature.

Clause 19.—Section 303 provides for the duration of various safety convention certificates. The 1960 Safety Convention gives power to the contracting Governments to fix the period for which cargo ship safety construction certificates shall be valid. A period of five years has been considered reasonable and administratively convenient for this purpose. Proposed sub-section (1A) which sub-clause (b) of this clause seeks to insert in section 303 gives effect to this.

The other changes which clause 19 seeks to make in section 303 of the Act are for the purpose of giving effect to the provisions of the 1960 Safety Convention as to the duration of various safety convention certificates.

Clause 20.—The amendment to section 304 is of a consequential nature.

Clause 21.—Section 306 of the Act provides for the issue in India of safety convention certificates to ships registered in foreign countries, and also for the issue in foreign countries of such certificates to ships registered in India. The 1960 Safety Convention provides for extension of similar facilities even to ships which are yet to be registered. The section is being amended to give effect to this.

Clause 22.—The 1960 Convention requires that even cargo ships of less than 500 tons gross but not less than 300 tons gross should have a radio telephony certificate. For this purpose, clause (c) of this clause seeks to insert a new sub-section (2A) in section 307 of the Act. The other amendments to section 307 are of a consequential nature.

Clauses 23 and 24.—The amendments to sections 308 and 309 are of a consequential nature.

Clause 25.—Except in cases where the prior permission of the appropriate authorities has been obtained, the 1960 Convention prohibits the making of any alterations during the interval between the completion of a survey of the ship for the issue of a certificate and the actual issue of such certificate. New section 309A seeks to give effect to this requirement.

Clause 26.—Sub-clause (a).—The 1960 Safety Convention contains a number of new regulations relating to the classification, packing, labelling, documentation and stowage of dangerous goods on board ships. Sub-section (2) of section 331 of the Act which provides for the various matters relating to dangerous goods, with regard to which the Central Government may make rules, is being amended to include the matters to which these new regulations pertain.

Sub-clause (b).—The definition of the expression 'dangerous goods' contained in the Explanation to section 331 is also being amended to exclude from its purview particular cargoes carried in ships, such as tankers, specially built or converted as a whole, for the purpose and thereby to bring it into conformity with the definition contained in the 1960 Safety Convention.

Clause 27.—The 1960 Convention requires the masters of grain ships to carry properly approved grain-loading plans. Proposed section 331A which clause 27 seeks to insert in the principal Act accordingly provides that no grain shall be loaded on board any Indian ship anywhere unless there is in force in respect of such ship a duly approved grain-loading plan. The section also makes provisions for approval of grain-loading plans and matters incidental thereto.

Clause 28.—The 1960 Convention stipulates that a grain-loading plan approved by a contracting Government shall be accepted as sufficient evidence that a particular ship when loaded in accordance with such plan meets the requirements of the Convention. Subclause (a) seeks to give effect to this.

The amendments proposed in sub-clauses (b), (c), (d) and (e) are mainly of a consequential nature.

Clause 29.—The amendment is of a consequential nature.

Clause 30.—The 1960 Convention contains a special Chapter on nuclear ships. A number of requirements have been incorporated in this Chapter for the purpose of ensuring that nuclear ships do not become a source of danger to life, not only at sea but also at ports and other places and that ships do not become a source of contamination of food and water resources. This clause introduces a new Part IXA in the principal Act to give effect to the various requirements of the Convention as to nuclear ships.

New Section 344A.—This section deals with application of the provisions of the Act in relation to nuclear ships. Nuclear power as a means of propulsion for merchant ships presents unique problems. In the present state of development of nuclear science, it is not even possible to visualise all these problems. It will not, therefore, be advisable to apply the provisions of the Act which have been formulated with reference to the ordinary ships to nuclear ships in their entirety. Accordingly, provision is made empowering the Central Government to apply certain provisions of the Act with such exceptions, modifications and adaptations as may be specified in the notification.

Sub-section (4) of the section embodies the safeguard normally provided for in cases of delegation of such powers and it lays down that such notification shall be laid in draft before both. Houses of Parliament for a period of not less than 30 days while they are in session and shall not be issued until it has been approved, whether with or without modifications, by each House of Parliament.

New Section 344B.—This provides for the issue of nuclear passenger ship safety certificates and nuclear cargo ship safety certificates and the periods of validity of such certificates.

New Section 344C.—This is self-explanatory and is intended to ensure that Indian nuclear ships do not proceed on international voyages without the requisite safety certificates required by the 1960 Convention.

New Section 344D.—In compliance with the 1960 Convention, this section requires every Indian nuclear ship to have on board a safety assessment and operating manual and makes provision for matters incidental thereto.

New Section 344E.—This requires foreign nuclear ships to give advance notice of their arrival in Indian territorial waters and provides for necessary control to ensure that there are no hazards involved in permitting the ship to enter Indian waters.

New Section 344F.—This is self-explanatory and it inter alia provides for control on the arrival of a nuclear ship at a port in India.

New Section 344G.—This section provides for notice of any accident anywhere to an Indian nuclear ship and of accidents to foreign nuclear ships in the territorial waters of India, to be given to the authorities mentioned in the section. It also provides for the action to be taken on receipt of such notice and for other matters incidental thereto.

New Section 344H.—Sections 228 to 231 of the principal Act deal with certificates of survey and provide for certain necessary matters in relation to certificates, such as cancellation or suspension of certificates, alterations in ships subsequent to grant of certificates, delivery of expired or cancelled certificates, affixing of certificates in conspicuous places. This section seeks to make those provisions applicable in the case of certificates issued under Part IXA on practically the same lines as section 309 of the principal Act makes those provisions apply in relation to certain certificates issued under Part IX of the Act.

New Section 3441.—This section seeks to confer on the Central Government powers to frame rules to carry out the purposes of Part IXA.

Clause 31.—The amendment is intended to provide expressly for certain additional dangers to navigation which a master of an Indian ship is required to report under the section.

Clause 32.—This clause seeks to insert a new section 354A to provide, as required by the Safety Convention, 1960, for communication of intelligence regarding dangers to navigation.

Clause 33.—This clause seeks to insert a new section 355A for the purpose of imposing an obligation on masters of Indian ships to render assistance to persons found at sea in danger of being lost and is modelled to some extent on the provisions of section 355 of the Act.

Clause 34.—The amendments are of a consequential nature.

Clause 35.—This clause seeks to amend section 436 of the principal Act to provide for penalties for contravention of the various new provisions.

Clause 36.—This clause which is self-explanatory seeks to insert a new section 454A for the purpose of incorporating in the Act an enabling provision permitted by the Convention and empowers the Central Government in this regard.

Clause 37.—By way of abundant caution, this clause seeks to add a proviso to sub-section (1) of section 456 of the principal Act to ensure that no exemption which is prohibited by the Safety Convention is granted under the sub-section.

Clause 38.—The amendment to sub-section (2) of section 458 of the principal Act is of a consequential nature.

Sub-clause (b) of this clause provides for the usual provision relating to laying of rules.

Clause 39.—This seeks to insert a new section 468 providing for removal of difficulties in giving effect to the provisions of the Act in so far as they relate to the Safety Convention.

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

New section 354A which clause 32 seeks to insert in the principal Act provides, as required by the Safety Convention of 1960, that intelligence regarding dangers to navigation mentioned in section 354 of the principal Act should be communicated to certain ships free of charge. The need for communicating such messages being of a highly contingent nature, it is not possible to estimate the expenditure likely to be involved as a result of the provision.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELEGATED LEGISLATION

Several provisions in the 1960 Convention which are sought to be implemented by the present Bill pertain to matters of detail and such matters are best left to be regulated by rules as has been done earlier in the principal Act in connection with the implementation of the 1948 Convention.

Clause 7 seeks to amend section 284 of the principal Act to enable the Central Government to make rules in regard to the construction requirements for cargo ships.

Clause 8 seeks to amend section 288 of the principal Act to enable Central Government to make rules in regard to (a) training of crews in launching and using life-rafts (b) provisions to be made for mustering the persons on board a ship and for embarking them in life-rafts and (c) the provision of suitable means situated outside the engine room whereby any discharge of water into life-rafts can be prevented.

Clause 12 seeks to insert a new clause in section 296 of the principal Act to confer power on the Central Government to make rules in respect of radio installations on motor life-boats and survival craft.

Clause 16 seeks to insert a new section (modelled on section 236 of the Act which deals with powers to make rules as to surveys of passenger ships)—section 299B—in the principal Act for empowering the Central Government to make rules to regulate the making of surveys of cargo ships.

Clause 26 seeks to amend section 331 of the principal Act to enable the Central Government to make rules with regard to additional requirements relating to carriage of dangerous goods laid down by the 1960 Convention.

Clause 28 seeks to add to the rule-making power of the Central Government under sub-section (5) of section 332 of the principal Act so as to bring within its purview matters relating to grain-loading plans.

Clause 30 seeks to insert in the principal Act new Part IXA relating to nuclear ships. Proposed section 344I of this Part seeks to confer on the Central Government powers to frame rules to carry out the purposes of the Part.

Clause 34 seeks to amend section 356 of the principal Act to enable Central Government to make rules with regard to the additional requirements under the 1960 Convention as to communication of information regarding dangers to navigation.

- 2. New section 344A which clause 30 seeks to insert in principal Act relates to the application of the provisions of the principal Act to nuclear ships. Sub-section (3) of the section seeks to confer power on the Central Government to direct by notification in the Official Gazette that the provisions of the Act enumerated therein shall not apply to nuclear ships or shall apply to nuclear ships only with such exceptions, modifications and adaptations as may be specified in the notification. Such a provision is necessary as the provisions of the Act which have been designed more with a view to ordinary ships may not be capable of being directly applied to nuclear ships. Further, in view of the present state of nuclear science and the possible developments in future, it would be necessary to take such power so that the provisions of the Act are suitably modified in consonance with new developments in the field. The safeguard normally provided for in cases of delegation of such powers is embodied in sub-section (4) which provides inter alia that the notification proposed to be issued under sub-section (3) shall be laid in draft before both Houses of Parliament for a period of not less than 30 days while they are in session and shall not be issued until it has been approved, whether with or without modifications, by each House of Parliament.
- 3. The matters mentioned in paragraph 2 pertain essentially to matters of procedure and detail. The delegation of power referred to in paragraph 3 is necessary for the special reasons mentioned in that paragraph. The delegation of legislative power is, therefore, of a normal character.
